General

 Debility.

That complete collapse of the entire system, when the organs improperly perform their functions, and as a natural result a cessation of nourishment to the body ensues, a continual loss of flesh is experienced, and death from starvation is the end. This trouble is in every instance averted by the use of that greatest concentrated food product:

Bovinine

Retained by the weakest stomach, readily assimilated, new flesh and nerve tissue is created, the blood is enriched, the vital organs resume their natural functions and a return to health is the result. In this connection, Dr. M. W. Van Denburg of Fort Edward, N. Y., says, "I have used Bovinine in cases of extreme debility where no other food would be tolerated and with very satisfactory results." Physicians everywhere tell the same story.

YALE LAW SCHOOL ITEMS.

The Yale Kent club debate last evening was on the subject, "Resolved, That independent action is preferable to party allegiance." A comparatively small number was present owing to the disagreeable evening, and perhaps to a certain extent also to the approaching examinations.

There will be no national congress held in the Kent club, as has been the practice during past years, at the close of the fall term, but the debates will be continued right up to vacation.

The law school this year closes Wednesday afternoon for the remainder of Thanksgiving week. Formerly only the day was given, but many of the men living at a distance being unable to get back, this year they will be given until Monday morning to return. Dean Wayland is as yet unable to resume his duties at the law school, although the students hope soon to see him back among them again. During his absence Professor Beers has seen that the men paid due attention to their studies.

Professor Shillitto begins another course of lectures on bookkeeping for the lawyer, and quite a gratifying number have signified their intention of taking advantage of this new feature of law school work. Professor Shillitto is well qualified to evolve a scientific system of books for a law office, and no doubt his lectures will be productive of much benefit to the men.

Many Vessels Wrecked.

London, Nov. 25.--The high northeast gale which set in on Saturday continues, and a large number of vessels on the eastern and southern coasts of England and on the French coast have been wrecked. In most cases, however, no lives were lost.

The Norwegian ship Isbuden stranded near Yarmouth yesterday and broke up before a life-boat could reach her. An attempt was made to get a line to her by means of rockets, but this failed, and her crew, twelve in number, perished.

A number of Torbay trawlers were caught in the gale and made for home. While running into the harbor three of them were dashed upon the rocks and one of them sank. Twenty men were seriously injured.

The British steamship British Empire, Captain Willis, from London for Boston, which ran aground in the Thames on Saturday as she was passing out, was pulled off last evening and she proceeded for Boston this morning.

Cowles-Roosevelt.

London, Nov. 25.--The marriage of Lieutenant Commander W. S. Cowles, naval attaché to the United States embassy here, and Miss Anna Roosevelt, sister of Theodore Roosevelt, president of the board of police commissioners of New York city, was celebrated in St. Andrew's church, Westminster, to-day.

Manhattan Day at Atlanta.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.--Dull skies and a few scattering drops of rain in the early morning did not alarm the crowds who are here for the Manhattan day celebration.

Although 11 o'clock was the hour set for the speech-making, it was nearly an hour later before the exercises were begun. President J. E. Graybill of the New York state commission turned over the New York state building to the Manhattan committee for the day.

J. Sedgwick Fuge, chairman of the committee, accepted the custody of the building and acted as master of ceremonies. He introduced the Rev. D. Parker Morgan of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, who offered prayer.

Mayor Strong was then introduced. He said in part:

"Manhattan day has been observed by the citizens of New York since November 25, 1785, as one of the gallant days in the history of New York and Manhattan Island. It was on that day that the British flag was lowered upon Manhattan Island and the soldiers and sailors of old England left our shores as a formal recognition of American independence, and left us in peace, quietude and poverty."

"On Manhattan day our sturdy banner was raised to the top of the same flag pole upon the battery from which an instant before the English flag had been lowered. There is the significance of the day we celebrate. This is the reason we selected this of all days during your exposition as the proper one for the representatives of New York to visit Atlanta and call it Manhattan day."

"With us it is a legal holiday, and as our citizens celebrate its observance the heart of every member of every financial institution of the city of New York beats in sympathy with the little colony of New Yorkers that is here to-day and sends greetings to you for the magnificent enterprise that you, the people of Atlanta, have originated and brought to such a magnificent culmination."

The principal speech of the day was made by Seth Low, president of Columbia college.

Japan and Russia.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 25.--A dispatch to the Novoe Vremya from Vladivostok states that it is learned from Yokohama that Japan has decided to submit to circumstances and abandon completely her policy on the Asiatic continent. She recognizes that it is advisable to confine herself to her island monarchy, and to concentrate her attention on Formosa.

The Japanese government, therefore, desires to maintain friendly relations with Russia. Japan recognizes the unconditional fight of the latter to keep Korea and Manchuria within the sphere of Russian political and economical influence.

London, Nov. 25.--The Times to-day publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg correspondent remarking that the Novoe Vremya's Vladivostok correspondent proved to be entirely wrong in his previous dispatches dealing with events in the far east.
